I always clean the surface of the vinyl with a water-alcohol solution (three parts distilled water, one part pure isopropryl alcohol, and one or two drops of Dawn dish detergent to break the surface tension.. A somewhat risky way to clean really dirty albums is with a thin layer of Elmer's glue.. It's not because Vinyl Studio can't do the job, it's just that I've been using other programs for editing and noise reduction for years and I'm more familiar with them.
